What benefits can EU migrants claim?

	Germany	UK	France	Austria
Allowance per month	143-400€	148-200€	343€	70€
Accommodation	Free, camps	Paid by the state	Free, camps	Given up to 120€ per person towards rent
Health insurance	✓	✓	✓	✓

People seeking refugee status in European countries are generally entitled to food, or money to buy it, plus shelter and medical attention, schooling for their children and access to interpreters and lawyers.

Where does the money come from?

government takes it from taxpayers' pockets

A few years ago this money could be used for national development, but now the part of it will go to migrants' social security.

UK is against benefits

Theresa May is planning to stop EU migrants from claiming benefits as part of Brexit negotiations.

Mrs May previously said 'change has got to come' .

Garbage left by migrants and refugees

Thousands of desperate migrants were camping out on roundabouts amid squalid camps overflowing with rubbish on the Greek holiday islands of Lesbos and Kos.

Strewn with piles of fetid, stinking rubbish, sodden bedding and abandoned tents, this was the day when beautiful resort turned into hell.

«We have ancient monuments that we must protect, and these immigrants, they are everywhere, leaving rubbish, going to toilet. We cannot.»

Rubbish mountains

Migrants on the Hungarian-Serbian border left more than 100 tons of household waste in one week. Hundreds of refugees were stuck in transit camps hoping to continue their journey to wealthier countries.

"Garbage left on roads and creeks by refugees. This is how they treat their host countries."

"Scenes to shortly be replicated throughout Europe! God help us all"

Native people adapt to migrants

Schools in Germany are ordering teenage girls not to wear mini-skirts or shorts so as to prevent attacks from Muslim migrants who may be offended by such attire.

There are also schools telling girls not to wear shorts – even in hot weather – to prevent sexual assaults by migrants.

argument

More than twice as many European Union immigrants are claiming unemployment benefits in Britain than vice versa, new figures have revealed.

Research by the Guardian found that while 14,880 Poles living in the UK are receiving JSA there are just two Britons claiming the equivalent in Poland.

The findings come after David Cameron said he wanted to ban foreign jobseekers claiming benefits and deport them from the UK if they do not find work within six months.

argument

Spain will pay jobless immigrants to go home under a decree approved, more evidence that its once booming economy is sputtering. Under the plan approved by the cabinet, the government will offer a lump sum to tens of thousands of residents who are not citizens of the European Union and who have been laid off in Spain. If they renounce their work and residency permits, they will receive 40 percent of their unemployment benefits immediately and will get the rest after they return home. Those who sign up must agree not to return to Spain for three years, with the promise they will be able to recover their work and residency permits after that. Spain is grappling with an increasing number of jobless workers, and its unemployment rate is now 10.7 percent, the highest in the European Union.

argument

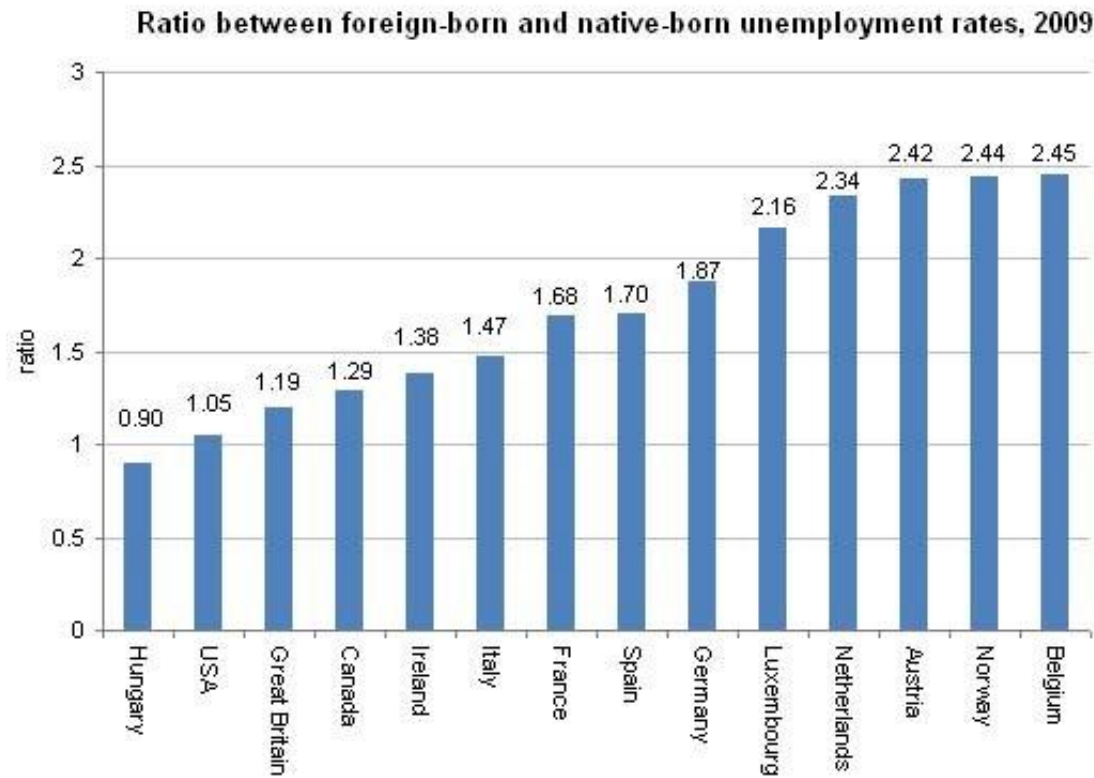

One of the most frustrating things about trying to analyze immigration and Mexican economics is that there are no good numbers for unemployment. Officially the Mexican government puts it at around 5 percent, but economists will tell you that this does not account for the informal economy in Mexico and those who are underemployed.

(So all the guys making a few pesos washing your windows at stoplights in Mexico City or Tijuana are considered to be as employed as teachers or lawyers.)

argument

According to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development's recent International Migration Outlook 2010 report, there is a much bigger disparity between the employment rates of immigrants and nonimmigrants in other rich countries:

In Belgium, for example, the unemployment rate for immigrants was nearly two and a half times as high as it was for the native-born.

The one country included in these data where immigrants did better than the native-born was Hungary. A commentary from the O.E.C.D. attributes this to the fact that arriving immigrants to Hungary tend to have jobs waiting for them. THE NY TIMES

#5 argument

Экстремизм и преступность среди молодежи мусульманских иммигрантских общин обусловливается тем, что для молодых мусульман Великобритании, Германии и Франции характерна высокая безработица, а низкий уровень образования оставляет мало шансов на их трудоустройство

Процесс маргинализации иммигрантов во многом связан с тем, что за последние десятилетия при переходе к постиндустриальному обществу в странах Западной Европы вырос спрос на высококвалифицированных специалистов и снизилась востребованность в рабочей силе низкой квалификации, ранее необходимой в индустриальных секторах и восполняемой, прежде всего, иммигрантами

Великобритании погромы вызваны практически тем же событием, что и во Франции в 2005 г.: от действий полицейских пострадал представитель малоимущих слоев иммигрантского происхождения, что объединяет эти два случая беспорядков.

Однако в отличие от Франции компания погромщиков в Лондоне включала в значительной части, если не подавляющей, коренных, не цветных британцев. Особенностью данной категории белых британцев неиммигрантского происхождения является их хроническая безработица, бедность, низкий уровень образования.

Таким образом, можно сделать вывод, что экстремистские настроения среди молодежных слоев как иммигрантского происхождения, так и автохтонного, обуславливаются их социально-экономическим положением, низкими трудовой социализацией и интегрированностью в социальные отношения.

NUCLEAR FALLOUT from the first atomic bomb tests in New Mexico and, later, from tests in Nevada is directly responsible for a sharp decline in the intelligence of American youth, according to new research. Radioactive iodine-131, which causes thyroid damage in the newborn, has impaired the mental development of a whole generation of American children. And the effects have been greatest in the far west of the United States, closest to the bomb test sites.
